

BAD HEALTH IS WEILMAN'S REASON FOR QUITTING GAME

Phenomenal Pitcher Developed on the Local Bluegrass League Team Tosses Away Bat and Glove.

A St. Louis dispatch says: Announcement was made of the decision of Pitcher Carl Weilman of the Browns to quit baseball. Weilman notified Business Manager Bob Quinn of the local American League team to that effect. The loss of the lanky left-hander is a serious one. One of the most popular players in the game, Weilman, when he was "right" was a great southpaw. Recently Carl has been seriously ill, and it is this it is thought, that made him decide to leave the game.

In his letter to Bob Quinn, Weilman states that he had thought the matter over very seriously this winter and had come to the conclusion that, in view of his impaired health, the work would prove too strenuous for him. Moreover, Carl believes the climate is not suited to his condition, which is, he says, that of a "man with one pump." Weilman regrets greatly that he is forced to make such a decision, as his relations with the Browns and the fans of St. Louis always have been most happy. He has a good position in his home town of Hamilton, Ohio, so he will have no financial worries.

Weilman started his professional career with the Richmond, Ky., club in the old Blue Grass League in 1909. In 1910 he won with Charleston, W. Va., and in 1911 with Flint in the South Michigan League. He played independent ball the following year and, in 1912, pitched for Maysville, Ky., where Scout Charley Barrett picked him up for Col. Bob Hedges.

It was in this year that Weilman came to the Browns and has been here ever since, thus finishing his big league career with the team which brought him up from the minors. His best American League year was in 1914, when he won 18 and lost 14, allowing an earned run average of 2.12. He was practically out of commission through sickness in 1917.

Last year he pitched but few games, but showed good form as a rule, winning his first start against the White Sox.

Perhaps the retirement of no other local player would call for more sincere regret than that caused by Weilman's going. He is one of the finest characters in the game and was uni-

MR. COX ENDORSES KENTUCKY CHILDREN'S HOME

Prominent Maysvillian, personally acquainted With Officers, Heartily Endorses Their Work.

The Kentucky Children's Home Society is soliciting funds to enlarge the present inadequate quarters and properly care for the occupants. No more worthy object exists in our state, Mr. William H. Cox says. He is personally acquainted with nearly every one of the Board of Directors, all of whom serve without pay, giving their time and money in the relief of distress. Judge Robert W. Bingham, the president of the board, is a christian gentleman, known far and wide for his charitable work. George Sehon, superintendent, the ablest authority in our government on children's home management, has given his life service to the work, and is the only paid officer in the society. Subscribers to this work can be assured that every penny given will be rightly used and strictly accounted for.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE INTERESTING.

The conference of Sunday school workers with Miss Howard of the State Association force at the Baptist church last Saturday evening proved highly interesting and beneficial. Miss Howard is thoroughly conversant with the young people's work and laid plans before the workers that put into effect will mean much for the youth of our city and county. Miss Jennie Dickson, county superintendent of young people's work will begin at once to organize along the lines laid out by Miss Howard. Let every school in city and county be ready to follow her leadership and cooperate in every way possible. It goes without saying that such a work is very badly needed by all our churches.

SEVEN ADDITIONS TO CHURCH.

There were seven additions by letter to the Third Street M. E. church at the Sunday evening service. There was a large crowd present to hear the pastor's third sermon on the "Lord's Prayer." These sermons are increasing in interest and power each Sunday. The music by the orchestra is coming in for its share of commendation. The evening service is always a popular one at this church, and is being made more so by the aggressive efforts of the pastor and congregation.

ONE-HALF TOBACCO CROP IS SUGGESTED

Pledge To Be Circulated Among the Growers to Cut Crop In Half.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 14. — Promulgation of a pledge calling for a reduction of the 1921 acreage by at least 50 per cent and the lowering of the dues in the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association to $1 were the outstanding features of the meeting of the officers and directors of that body Saturday morning and afternoon in the Lafayette Hotel.

To accomplish the reduction in acreage an active campaign is to be immediately inaugurated in every burley producing county of Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, Virginia and Missouri.

J. N. Kehoe, of Maysville, who was elected president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, until late Friday night, but said that the conference was simply an effort to discover if there was not some way to get a grip on the tobacco proposition. "I am anxious," said Mr. Kehoe, "to see the organization of an effective body which will make burley growing profitable both for growers and buyer. We cannot do anything without an organization."

Mr. Kehoe said that while he was not in a position to say whether a combination of the two tobacco bodies was probable, he thought it was a logical thing to do. There was no question, he said, but that a reduction was imperative because there was too much tobacco and of a low grade on the market.

INTERESTING MEETING OF FARMERS ON NEXT WEDNESDAY.

MRS. MARY LILLESTON FOUND DEAD IN HOME THIS MORNING

Stroke of Apoplexy is Thought to Have Caused Sudden Death—Supposed to Have Died Sunday Evening.

Mrs. Mary Lilleston, aged about 65 years, was found dead at her home in East Second street, between Commerce and Poplar streets, this morning at about 10:30 o'clock by friends who had become alarmed at their inability to arouse her.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hirschfeld, had visited Mrs. Lilleston and at about 4 o'clock they had left her in good spirits except that she had complained some little of having felt bad during the day. She was to spend the evening Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Royle, who live next door, and at her failure to call within a reasonable time, members of Mr. Royle's family went to her home and called to her. She failed to answer and they thought she might have laid down to take a nap.

This morning members of the Royle family noticed that there was no smoke coming from the Lilleston home and they again endeavored to summon Mrs. Lilleston but found all of the doors locked and could not raise her. They then telephoned to Mr. Hirschfeld, a very close friend of Mrs. Lilleston, who immediately came to her home having summoned Dr. S. R. Harover. They could not gain entrance to the house and procuring a ladder, they climbed to a second story window and thus entered. They found Mrs. Lilleston in a back bedroom cold in death. She had fallen between a trunk and a fireplace and still wore the clothing she had worn on Sunday afternoon. It is thought that she died shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Hirschfeld left her home had died from natural causes, probably apoplexy.

FINE ASSESSED AGAINST WATER COMPANY TODAY

Action Taken Along Agreed Procedure in Water Company Fight—Mayor Russell Also Takes Hand.

County Judge H. P. Purnell today assessed a fine of fifteen dollars and costs against the Maysville Water Company upon one of the several warrants which were obtained in County Court several weeks ago by the State Board of Health. This fine was agreed upon by both the Water Company and the Health Board's attorneys as a basis upon which to bring an injunction suit taking the case into Circuit Court.

It was made fifteen dollars so as to prevent appeal to the higher court and it is understood that the next step in the agreed procedure is the filing of an injunction suit in Circuit Court asking that Judge Purnell be enjoined from further trial of these cases. This suit will probably be brought late today or tomorrow.

Mayor T. M. Russell took a hand in the game yesterday when he asked for a warrant under a city ordinance against serving impure food or drink. This warrant was held up in Police Court this afternoon and Dr. Reynolds, City Health Officer, was forced to serve a nuisance notice on the Water Company immediately. Following the service of this notice, the city will proceed along the line of common nuisance instead of proceeding under the city ordinance.

Employees of the Maysville Light Company are today removing the old unsightly wooden poles along the line of the new White Way in West Second street.

Coroner Thomas Higgins investigated and reached the conclusion that she had died from natural causes.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith and family, who live in a part of Mrs. Lilleston's home, are out of the city and there was therefore no one in the house at the time of her death.

LOCAL KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WILL JOIN STATE BALL LEAGUE

Delegates Are Chosen To Attend the Meeting Held To Consider Organizing Kentucky Baseball League for the Summer.

At a meeting of the Maysville Council Knights of Columbus held at the hall in Market street Sunday afternoon Messrs. C. T. Brown and H. J. Shea, were chosen to represent the local council at a meeting of delegates to be held in Lexington on next Sunday to consider the matter of organizing a Knights of Columbus baseball league throughout the state of Kentucky.

The cities of Lexington, Paris, Maysville, Covington, Ludlow, Newport and Louisville have been asked to join in the organization of such a league and all of the details will be carefully worked out at the meeting to be held in Lexington next Sunday.

It is understood that the members of the local council are very enthusiastic over the proposed organization and they certainly could not have selected two better delegates to attend the meeting at Lexington than Messrs. Shea and Brown. Both men are close followers of the game of baseball and they have both been identified with the active management of a local team and in the management of the two baseball leagues of which Maysville has been a member.

The local council could organize a very strong team from its membership and there is no question but that such games would be liberally patronized by local baseball fans.

Those who attended church services at the First Baptist church on Sunday morning were indeed fortunate. Mr. James B. Wood spoke at this service and delivered a most interesting and helpful talk.

OUR POLICY

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of of the County as a whole.

HAVE DONE WITH MEDDLING.

"In the opinion of Senator Davis Elkins of West Virginia, the message written by the people at the polls last November will not be read aright by the Congress unless it ceases to give serious attention to bills that are drawn with the idea of extending Federal interference with private business," says the Republican Publicity Association. "The bill regulating the meat packers was passed through the Senate over the opposition of Mr. Elkins, and he announces that he intends to cast his vote against the Calder coal regulation bill and against all other measures of similar variety.

"One of the undoubted causes for the voters of the country turning en masse to the Republican party last November declared Senator Elkins, 'was that they were heartily sick and tired of the intrusion of the government into private business. * * * It is to be hoped that the Congress elected last November will understand that that is what should be read from the verdict of the voters. This expiring Congress apparently places no such interpretation on the election returns.'

"The indictment drawn in the campaign last summer against the meddling tactics of the Wilson Administration was sufficient to bring about its overwhelming defeat. The people had fresh in their minds the disastrous effects of the price fixing of sugar, of wheat, of coal, and the arbitrary interference with the distribution of those and other products in utter defiance of the law of supply and demand.
The consumers paid the cost of every one of those infringements of natural economic laws, and that added expense to the cost of living forcibly impressed on the minds of the voters the necessity of removing the cause of it all. The downfall of Wilson and Wilsonism resulted.

"But the habit of meddling with the affairs of private concerns seems to have persisted even in a Congress controlled by Republicans. The idea still finds its strongest adherents among the Democrats of the minority in both Houses, but they are receiving sufficient support from certain Republicans to pass bills precisely of the sort that brought about the repudiation of the late Democratic regime. Unless heed is taken of the warning sounded by Senator Elk-ins, similar disaster will be suffered at the next election by the party now in power.

"Decentralizing industry and centralizing government at Washington," says Senator Elkins in summarizing the situation, 'has become a mania with many people, whose ultimate goal is apparently government ownership and control of all private business and enterprise. But they are not the great mass of the American people by any manner of means. * * * It is time we start on the work of fulfilling Senator Harding's promise to the country to 'return to normalcy.' The country's hope for a realization of that pledge rests with the Congress which was elected on the strength of it.'

"Tremendous responsibility rests upon the Harding Administration and upon the Congress that will work in consonance with it.
The people look for an early eradication of every evil that condemned the regime of President Wilson. There is bound to be some disappointment, because it is humanly impossible to repair in such a short time all the destruction wrought in the past eight years, but Congress can at least call an immediate halt to the forces that contributed so materially to economic chaos. Private initiative is responsible for America's position as the wealthiest of nations. Let us acknowledge the fact and refuse to place further impediments to the normal expression of that initiative."

WALLOP HIM, SAMMY!

There is a remarkable inconsistency in the charge of Attorney General Palmer that Mr. Untermeyer aided the Kaiser. Why shouldn't he? He was a follower of Woodrow Wilson, and undoubtedly had read the Democratic campaign text book of 1916, published in the midst of the war. About that time Mr. Watson, had demanded peace without victory, which meant victory for the Kaiser. In Untermeyer read the Democratic campaign text book of 1916 he found Mr.
Palmer's name in it as a member of the National Committee which stood sponsor for the book. He also found in that text book a reprint of a speech in which it declared that "the best of friendly relations exist between this country and Germany." That was printed by the Democratic campaign committee about the time Untermeyer is charged with being an advisor of Germany. Why shouldn't he be an advisor for the nation with which Mr. Palmer's Committee declared we were "on the best of friendly relations?" "Lay on, McDuff! and damned be he who first shall cry 'enough'."

The House intends to reduce the army to 150,000 men by refusing an appropriation for a larger number. Moreover, Mr. Baker will not be with us to exceed the limit and pile up another deficit.

sional Record suggest a hyphenated proofreader.—Rochester Herald.

To pay the present British gold debt would require 47,171 tons

"CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME."

While it is true that "charity begins at home," yet it is equally true that it does not necessarily end there. The person who can read of the sufferings of those of other countries, even of those of Germany with whom, thanks to President Wilson, we are still nominally at war, without a feeling of sympathy and a desire to help, is unworthy of the name American. The people of the United States do not war upon non-combatants. Women and children of every race have always received the utmost consideration and assistance in time of need. Nor do we, as a nation, desire to inflict unnecessary suffering even upon those who are themselves at fault. As a people we are actuated by philanthropic motives.

Such being the case, we have been quick to respond to calls for assistance made on behalf of the suffering of other countries. But there is an unwise as well as a wise charity. We are not called upon to beggar ourselves in order to aid others.

Pseudo-philanthropists, of the "international" variety, have been loudly demanding that we forgive the debt owed to us by different European nations, and also that we open wide our markets in order to enable them to recover their former prosperity. That would be all right, if thereby we did not rob our own people whose needs demand our first consideration. We shall, if we continue our present Free-Trade policy, greatly increase unemployment in this country.
There are at the present time, it is estimated, two and a quarter millions of our workers out of employment. Americans get no less hungry than foreigners and "charity begins at home." Many of those now unemployed, probably the greater proportion of them, could be now employed and able to feed and clothe themselves and families, were it not for the remarkable flood of imports which has drowned out our own industries. We can use only a certain quantity of any commodity, and if we hire foreigners to produce it for us we must condemn our own workmen who produce such commodity to illness and want. That is the whole case in a nutshell. We must either hire our own workmen to produce the goods we need, or else we must hire foreign workmen. If we hire the foreigners our own workmen will be unemployed.

If our present Tariff rate remain unchanged, as it advocated by certain people who set themselves up as guides and instructors in matters financial and economic, we shall have not two and a quarter million idle workmen, but the number will be quadrupled. In that event we shall cut a sorry figure in the business and financial world.
Having lost the home market we shall be still unable to capture the foreign market, for if we cannot compete with foreign producers in our own market, we shall certainly be unable to do so in the foreign markets.

With our domestic markets given over to foreign producers we would hardly be able to do much in the way of extending assistance to the needy of other countries. On the contrary, charity would both begin and end at home, if, indeed, we should not become objects of charity ourselves. We would be a sorry spectacle if we should, through our Free-Trade policy, build up the productive industries of other countries and thereby pauperize ourselves to the extent of being obliged to ask charity of those same countries which are now the objects of tender solicitude on the part of our pseudo-philanthropists and imitation economists.

The government of every country owes Protection to its citizens.
The Protection required may vary according to the needs of the country, but economic Protection is no less the prerogative and duty of the government than is Protection against invading armies. There is only one thing for us as a people to do, and that is to build up our own industries by means of an adequate Protective Tariff, and then give the abundance, thus made possible, to the needy of other nations.
We should disregard the biased advice of those who are more interested in realizing par value on the foreign stocks and bonds which they purchased of other nations during the war, at which time they showed their philanthropy by buying them at a few cents on the dollar. There is more than one kind of charity and we must be on our guard against the bogus variety.

CATTS' SPORT KITTEN.

Former Governor Sidney J. Catts, of Florida, where the rattler rattleth, and the pineapple pineth, and the alligator mourneth for its first born, is out for protection good and plenty, and none may say him nay. So long as the Republicans remain in power he intends to devote one of his lives to the protection of Southern products. Said he at the convention of the Southern Tariff Association in Atlanta recently: "If there is to be a protective tariff bill at all, the country should have one that will protect every section and not one that would benefit one and hurt the other." Mr. Catts must have had visions of Republican reprisals because the Democratic law placed northern and western products on the free list and protected Southern goods, but he need have no fears on that score. "The effect of a non-protective tariff on Southern products was already being felt in Florida," said he, "especially on citrus fruits and Irish potatoes, two of the principal products of Florida which were being imported into the state free of duty and sold cheaper than the Florida growers could raise them." For years Brother Catts was a supporter of the free trade party, but there is a great light dawning in his neck of the woods and the Florida cracker has become a "you-need-a" when he discusses with his neighbor the subject of protection.

TAKE TH EPLUG—GIMME THE CHAW.

It is suggested that ultimately it may be best for the people to keep the tax and let the government have the income. This suggestion comes from the New York World, chief defended of the administration under which present tax conditions arose. At a matter of fact, some of the larger tax payers would have been better off if the government had taken the income and paid the taxpayers the tax.

New York Letter

New York. — No one can accuse women of taking their politics half-heartedly now that they are in. On the very same day that the formal opening of the National Women's Republican Club was announced came a defy from the Women's Democratic Political League regarding the party politics of Abraham Lincoln. A challenge to debate all-comers has been issued by them on the subject, "Lincoln as a Democrat."

The highwaymen among us are more spectacular than the honest people, but perhaps they don't outnumber them, after all. Each morning five men walk up Broadway in the Thirties each with a bag of money on his shoulder, taking it from a chain of restaurants to the bank. Behind them marches a pugilistic guard, on the lookout for said highwaymen. The other morning one of the men dropped his bag at the corner of 30th street, and coins clinked joyfully about the pavement. No policeman was in sight. But the crowd of passersby stopped and hastened to help gather in the money, tossing it to the pile in the center of the walk. The check-up at bank found every penny and every dollar safely there. "And this," murmured an onlooker while the money-search was in progress, "is what New Yorkers call a crime-wave."

Mrs. John Barrymore has written her first play and it has been accepted by Charles Frohman, Inc. "Chair de Lune" is the title. Mrs. Barrymore who was Mrs. Leonard Thomas prior to her divorce and recent marriage to the actor, was pronounced by Paul Helleu, the French artist, to be the most beautiful woman in America. To become a playwright on top of that seems almost too much of an achievement for one woman.

The moot question of the demotion of several hundred Regular Army officers has finally been projected into a clear cut fight. Officers have been smarting under the results of an act passed by Congress last June, which many of them insist is not carried out as it should be. Nothing definite was done about it, however, until Francis M. Wilson, Vice President of the Barbour Steamship Co., decided to take his brother-in-law as a test case and go into action. Major John H. French is the brother in question. Col. French was during the World War and until the newly-affected Court of Inquiry revised those hundreds of titles downward. Mr. Wilson has engaged attorneys and declared he is going to have the matter thrashed out and settled some way so that officers hereafter will get a hearing before being demoted. Whatever this effort accomplishes will affect, of course, not only the case of Major French but the case of those hundreds of others. "The officers are placed in Class B, under the present system, due to entries of mere opinion," said Major French. "What these opinions are based upon is never stated. The officers can request the action of the Court of Inquiry. That is a military tribunal of three to five officers. As it is now, it must act not in accordance with the military laws of the U. S. Army, but with the orders and policies of the War Department, and without any hearing whatever before the boards with power of decision. We must have, instead, a condition where the facts are determined by boards governed by law and before whom the officer, concerned has the right to be heard. We desire that questions of fact be considered by the Courts of Inquiry and the fact placed upon the guilty party regardless of rank." Major French entered the Indian Service in 1891, and later, the Regular Army. He saw eight years of service in the Philippines and four years in Mexico. Francis M. Wilson was one of the most energetic friends of the service men during the war, he himself having been rejected for service because of defective eyesight.

One New York truck driver may cease to be so cynical about human events as the result of one scoff he enjoyed the other day. Louis Dino, 12 years old, presented for his inspection and opinion a bracelet of white metal set with glistening stones, which he found on the street and looked sort of pretty, like his sister's comb. "Where

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTE

"Ja get it?" jered the truck driver, "Five an den? Take it away and don't bother me with such trash." Louis didn't especially doubt him but he was in front of a jewelry store and thought he might as well ask them if he wanted it. Charles Stern, the jeweler, announced that it was platinum and was set with 52 perfect diamonds. But just when Louis was getting duly excited about it, Mr. Stern turned it over to the police.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

Farmer's Relief.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Senator William S. Kenyon of Iowa has introduced two bills for the relief of the farmers. One of them proposed to establish a rural credit society with a capital of $25,000,000 to assist agriculturists in the marketing of their crops, and the other contemplates the organization of an insurance company to loan money to the farmers. Both measures have been referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, of which Senator Kenyon is a member, and he will exert himself to secure favorable reports upon them.

More Work For I. C. C.

The bill introduced by Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey to remove restrictions of the Clayton anti-trust act on railroads doing business with companies having interlocking directorates has been favorably reported to the Senate by the Committee on Interstate Commerce. The committee recommended an amendment to the measure to the effect that the Interstate Commerce Commission should have supervision over such transactions.

What, If Any?

The Senate has adopted a resolution presented by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, calling upon the President for information as to what, if any, steps have been taken in the interest of the claims of Americans whose ships and cargoes were seized by the British government during the war. It is understood that the Chicago packers had millions of dollars' worth of meat products diverted into English ports which were destined for Sweden, and that they were kept there until spoiled, with no reparation or adequate explanation forthcoming from England.

Calder Coal Bill.

Hearings on the coal licensing bill introduced by Senator William M. Calder of New York have been brought to an end, and it is announced by Chairman Robert M. LaFollette of the Manufacturers Committee, in charge of the measure, that an effort will be made to report the bill favorably and secure its passage before the end of the session on March 4th.

Tax Exempt China Companies.

The Secretary of Commerce has given his endorsement to the bill introduced by Congressman Leonidas C. Dyer of Missouri providing for the incorporation of tax exempt companies to further American trade with China. It is declared by Secretary Alexander that "American trade in China should be put on an equal footing with foreign competition it is forced to meet." It is probable that the measure will

The following case is but one of many occurring daily in Maysville. It is an easy matter to verify it. You cannot ask for better proof.

Jno. T. Bramel, retired bookkeeper, 108 West Front street, Maysville, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great advantage to me and I contribute fourteen years of my life to them. It was some years ago that I found I had kidney trouble and suffered severely with it. After a long course of Doan's Kidney Pills I became well and had no trouble for many years. Just recently I noticed my kidneys were again out of order and my system was generally weak. I knew it was a return of the trouble. I did not lose any time in getting a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they have given me the same good results and I consider them a wonderful remedy." (Statement given November 15, 1916.)

On November 22, 1920, Mr. Bramel said: "I couldn't recommend a better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills after the benefit they were to me when I was about down and out with the worst form of kidney trouble. I gave a statement many years ago regarding the merit of this wonderful remedy. My cure has been a lasting one."
